Death and Life

In an unusual editorial, the Chicago Tribune said that it was time to support the pope’s plans for a new world order.

“It is time to brush off the dust of the old world, to build a new world that is not based on the divisions of nations or classes, but on the unity of all peoples. It is time to create a world where the only division is between the rich and the poor, the haves and the have-nots. It is time to make the world a better place for all,” the editorial said.

The editorial went on to say that it was time to end the war in Afghanistan and to promote dialogue between the United States and the Taliban. It also called for the creation of a new world order that would be based on the principles of democracy, peace, and justice.

Sex and Church

A Church of England bishop targeted by a gay rights group was appointed yesterday as Archbishop of Canterbury, the church’s second highest post.

The Rt. Rev. David Hope was named to the position by the Church of England Synod, which is made up of bishops, clergy, and lay people. He will replace the Rev. George Carey, who retired last month that he had had memory problems.

Bishop Hope, 59, said he has been advised to keep his name off the list of nominees for the position. However, some have called for his resignation.

Prime Minister John Major has faced criticism from some bishops over the government’s policy on AIDS, but he has not issued any public statement.

Sunshine State safety

On any given day in Florida, from 1998 to 1999, 94 million cars — down a million from 1998, when traffic was slow — have been on the roads.
